Gentlemen:

I hand you herewith the findings of the first study of weekly newspaper readership in Oklahoma which was undertaken in cooperation with your organization.

This readership study of a representative Oklahoma weekly newspaper was undertaken as one of the essential services of the School of Journalism in behalf of the publishers of the state—to provide, through careful research, authenticated information about editorial and advertising media.

The newspaper selected for study is The Madill Record, published on Thursdays, founded in 1895, 8 columns, 12 ems wide, 280 agate lines long, in Madill, Oklahoma, county seat of Marshall county. Circulation is 2,040. Editor and publisher is Herbert J. Pate.

The Method

Interviewing for this survey was done on July 19 and 20, 1948, approximately four days after publication on July 15.

The method used was pioneered by Dr. George Gallup at the University of Iowa, developed by the Advertising Research Foundation in a number of readership studies, and adapted for use on Oklahoma newspapers by the University of Oklahoma School of Journalism.

A fresh copy of the newspaper was presented to each reader who was asked to point out which items he had read and to use a crayon in marking down through the headline and the story as far as he had read. Advertisements were marked in a similar fashion. One 4 x 10 clothing ad was measured by elements.

To conform with other readership traffic studies, news items were not considered as read unless the reader had read the headline and a portion of the content of each individual story.

FAYETTE COPELAND
Director, School of Journalism
University of Oklahoma

After measuring the "depth" of readership in addition to measuring the "traffic," we are of the opinion that headline readership should not be discounted entirely. Therefore, in certain instances, tabulations have been made to show headline readership in addition to the regular percentage tabulations.

The Sample

The basic sampling plan for this study was a systematic selection from the publication's circulation list. Because it is scientifically unnecessary to contact every subscriber in all areas, a rectangular area was set up with Madill at the center. This area, which constituted the universe to be studied, measured 10 miles from east to west and 11 miles north to south.

It is believed that this 110 square mile area constitutes the primary trade territory and contains readers who are not unlike readers elsewhere in the county. Kingston, a small town on the southern edge of the area, was included.

Following the technique of choosing every "nth" name on the subscription list, this plan called for the selection of every 3rd name on the list after those had been culled which were not in the marked area. The publisher was not informed of the frequency of choice nor of the name which started the selection.

No substitutes were allowed and at least two call backs were made when readers were not at home. Every other interview called for a male so that an equal distribution of males and females could be obtained.

Of the subscriber families contacted, nine men and five women refused to be interviewed. Also, six men and five women said they had not read the July 15 issue. Fifteen claimed readers disqualified themselves by failing to pass the qualifying test which is explained more fully below. Of those who failed, 7 were men and 8 were women. Fifty-one subscriber families were not at home any of the three or more times when interviewers knocked on their doors.

The percentages used in this report are based on 206 interviews. 102 interviews were with men, 104 were with women.

The Qualifying Test

In order to make the closest possible check on reader claims, we used a qualifying test.

Each respondent who claimed to be a reader was shown a printed sheet (7 columns, spaced 2 ems apart without rules, by 15 inches long) containing 10 editorial items from the surveyed issue and 10 editorial items not yet published. The test used in this survey contained two (one unpublished) two-column pictures, two (one unpublished) two-column comic cartoons, and 16 stories (8 unpublished) including the headline and from one to four inches of the story. The remainder of the story was trimmed diagonally with the saw so that the item would have the appearance of being incomplete.

Those readers who were not able to mark a majority which had been published were not considered as qualified readers.

Consultation and Tabulation

Francis R. Cella, director of the bureau of business research and professor of economics at the University of Oklahoma, advised the field staff concerning problems of sampling.

Tabulation of the returns which constituted 206 interviews, including the qualifying kit with 20 items, the questionnaire with 25 items, and the newspapers with 269 items, was accomplished under the direction of Professor John F. Chaney, director of the University statistical service. Both the regular IBM cards and the IBM scoring sheets were used after the information was coded. Sorters and counters provided the totals in the various classifications.

The Questionnaire

A by-product of the traffic study was found in the results of a questionnaire filled out in the presence of each reader interviewed. Significant facts were learned concerning reader habits, tenure of readership, time spent reading the average issue, composition of reader families, and some of the likes and dislikes of individual readers. A portion of this information will be found elsewhere in this report.

The Field Staff

The field work was directed by Ross Strader, special instructor in journalism. Under his supervision, the actual interviewing was done by 25 advanced students in the school of journalism including 3 graduate journalism students. Every member of the field staff had previous training in interviewing and was carefully instructed in each phase of the operation.

While the publisher cooperated with the School of Journalism in providing maps of the county, extra copies of the paper, the qualifying test, and housing facilities for the interviewers, the field survey was directed from the Chamber of Commerce offices in the City hall and conducted entirely independent of contact with the newspaper organization.

Madill Record

Madill and Marshall County

Madill is the county seat of Marshall County with an estimated population of 3,500. (1940 census, 2,594). The 1940 census for Marshall County shows a population of 12,384. (2.1 percent of that figure was Negro).

In 1942, the damming up process of the water of Lake Texoma was begun with the building of Denison Dam. So far, the lake has had no apparent effect on the composition or the habits of the people in Marshall County. As tourist facilities are developed certain changes may be expected. The county is predominately agricultural. The Frisco railroad serves Marshall county with a main line and a branch line. Other than the normal business places usually contained in a city between 3,000 and 4,000 population, there are a cotton gin, hatchery, Kraft milk buying plant, and a bottling plant. Timber products include oak and walnut. Farm products include cotton, corn, oats, peanuts and pecans.

There is a boat factory at Kingston, a small community of about 500 population seven miles southeast of Madill.

Nearest communities of any size include Tishomingo with an estimated population of 2,300 (1940 census, 1,951) located outside the county about twelve miles to the northeast. Ardmore is twenty-eight miles to the northwest, Durant is twenty-eight miles to the southeast, and Ada is forty-five miles north.

Except for the Weekly Kansas City Star, virtually no other weekly newspaper penetrates the trade territory of the Madill Record although several daily newspapers are distributed throughout the county. Principal daily papers which serve the Madill area are the Daily Ardmoreite, the Daily Oklahoman and Times, Tulsa World and Tribune, Denison (Texas) Herald, and the Durant Democrat.

Apparently anxious to "get it over with," more than 75 men in this area have enlisted in the services during the past four months, according to an announcement this week by Sgt. Lazenby, local recruiting officer.

"Virtually all the new enlistees are seeking service with the air forces," he disclosed. AF enlistments, however, now have been trimmed to 9,000 monthly in the nation, permitting only one volunteer enlistment in this area each week, Lazenby added.

"Everything is waiting on the president appointing the national director and issuing the necessary regulations," said Colonel Murray.

Veterans and all 18-year-olds will be registered separately from nonveterans over 18, according to the Illinois draft director

Robert S. Kerr, U.S. Senate candidate who battened down a 62,367 vote lead over his nearest opponent in the primary election, appealed today to Marshall county voters to join in support of his program for development, progress and prosperity of Oklahoma.

In expre on to the host c voted for him in the Democratic primary, Kerr said: "I am deeply grateful to the voters of Oklahoma for the support they gave me in the primary election, and I will assuredly appreciate their continued cooperation in the run-off primary July 27th."

Final official returns in the State race gave Kerr almost a 2 to 1 lead over his nearest opponent, Gomer Smith. Kerr received 135,878 votes to 73,511 for Smith and carried 68 of the state's 77 counties Smith led in only 5 counties

Kerr received 1,416 votes in Marshall county, 525 votes more than Smith, his nearest opponent.

Experienced political observers, remembering Smith's party bolt in 1942 when he supported Republican E. H. Moore in the U. S. Senate race believe the popular and capable former Governor will experience little difficulty in winning the Democratic nomination on July 27th.

When asked about his campaign plans for the second primary, Kerr said he would continue to run FOR the United States Senate and not AGAINST anyone. In the first primary, the former chief executive steadfastly refused to engage in personalities. He campaigned altogether on his construction program for the development and progress of Oklahoma

ENTHUSIASM IS NEEDED

President Truman has been named as standard bearer for the democratic party in the coming presidential election.

Democrats nominated him, but they certainly were not enthusiastic about it. The president is not a colorful candidate. He does not appeal to the imagination of the American voters. He's just an ordinary leader, in the minds of the avera citizen, and not one to incite enthusiasm.

It is little wonde he lacks strong appeal. He of such personality, such st and such popular appeal that by comparison any other leader on the political scene must seem weak by comparison. It is just as true of the republican candidate, Thomas E Dewey, as it is of President Truman.

M-38% W-36%

The coming election will not be marked by the heated sentiments of recent presidential elections. Neither candidate is of such stature as to arouse the staunch following or the militant opposition characteristic of Franklin D. Roosevelt's campaigns.

The current candidates are rather ordinary —mildly liked or weakly opposed, depending to a large degree on the buttered side of the bread

Every person in the county should take advantage of this opportunity to have an X-ray picture made. It is the one way in which tuberculosis can be discovered and cured in its early stages—and thereby prevent its further spread.

If you do not value your own health, you at least owe it to others about you to be sure that you are not suffering from the disease in its early stages.

The state health department X-ray units are covering Marshall county. It's easy enough to reach one of them, and the opportunity should not be missed.

WHAT DO PEOPLE WANT?

Voters of Johnston county have proved again that what the citizens of Oklahoma want is prohibition and whiskey.

It doesn't make sense, of course. It's impossible for us to understand what in the world a voter is thinking about when he goes to the polls and cast such illogical ballots as are common in Oklahoma.

So far as we know, at the time of the recent election Johnston county was the only county in the state in which intoxicating liquor could not be purchased.

Charlie Gilliam, the Johnston county sheriff, had been elected on a platform pledge to stop the sale of intoxicants in that county. He had kept his promise. The county was as dry as it was humanly possible to make it. Charlie Gilliam as sheriff personally enforced the law.

When an outside v an opportunity to supply Johnston county residents ar a stock of whiskey, he foun ent that it was only a matte hours until the sheriff knew about it. A tap on the shoulder and a firm word of advice was all that was needed to send the potential lawbreaker on his way—in a hurry.

M-43% W-34%

But in last week's primary election, Charlie Gilliam was defeated for re-election! Apparently the voters of Johnston county felt that they did not want the law enforced.

These same voters, however, consistently vote for prohibition when the question is put before them. They want prohibition, but they do not want the law enforced. They want the law on the books, but do not want to abide by it.

It adds up that they want prohibition and booze

Such a combination in most counties leads to conditions that are pretty unsavory. Bribery isn't a pretty word, but there is indication that it is rather widely practiced among law enforcement agencies, in relation to illicit liquor traffic

We believe that Charlie Gilliam was doing precisely right in Johnston county We believe that so long as the prohibition law, or any other law, is on the statute books it should be enforced to the letter.

And we don't believe that voters should be so hypocritical as to vote for a law, and then vote against those who would enforce that law.

Arabs and Jews Go Back to War As U.N. Truce Fails in Palestine; Truman OKs Farm Price Support

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

FAILURE: U.N. Truce

There was not peace, but once more a sword in Palestine. The United Nations truce had failed.

As the four-week interruption of hostilities between Arabs and Jews dragged somberly through its final hours, combatants on both sides were making preparations to resume warfare.

They had failed to come to terms, and tha failure arose out of the fact that there had existed no political or social basis upon which a peace agreement could be rested, nor were either the Jews or Arabs particularly eager to create one.

Their attitude throughout the truce negotiations had been that the contest over whether the state of Israel should be allowed to exist must necessarily be a fiat, win-or-lose battle with no middle ground solution possible.

Count Folke Bernadotte, U.N. mediator in Palestine, had tried hard, but he had had to carry out his negotiations under what he termed a truce between the Jews and simply was no basis upon which b stalized.

This M-16% W-13%

Before the truce expired Bernadotte had endeavored to get it extended and continue the negotiations. Israel had agreed to such an extension but the Arab league opposed it.

Previously, during the last days of the truce, the Arabs had rejected a plan submitted by Bernadotte which included an extensive revision of the now defunct U.N. partition scheme.

Bernadotte's proposal would have restored the area of Palestine to what it was before Trans-Jordan was separated from it, and that total area then would have been partitioned into independent Arab and Jewish states.

The plan, as presented, had a ring of desperation in it. It must have been obvious, even to Bernadotte, that the Arabs would not accept such a scheme, particularly since they had violently opposed the original U.N. partition idea.

Trans-Jordan was especially antagonistic to the plan, insisting that it would put the nation under at least partial jurisdiction of the United Nations, thus making it no better than a dependent state.

As Bernadotte and his staff left Palestine guns already were firing and the Holy Land had relapsed into a condition of war

FARM BILL: Price Support

To the accompaniment of his now customary blast at the 80th congress President Truman signed into law a farm bill that extends present price support policies for 15 months and establishes a long-range, flexible support program to begin January 1, 1950.

Signing the bill, the President said: "I wish to make it plain once again that ice supports is on this congress to meet the probl agriculture."

This M-12% W-10%

Thus, ing the farm price support bill in itself but rather giving another re-run to the familiar theme whereby he has been castigating congress for doing a little when a lot more was needed.

Congress, he said, failed to enact legislation to strengthen the soil conservation program; it did not provide the necessary funds for marketing research; it did not act on the international wheat agreement. It failed, he specified, to meet "the serious problems of rural housing, health and education."

"In the field of agriculture, as in so many others, most of the business of the 80th congress was left unfinished," Mr. Truman observed.

Under the extension bill farm prices generally will be supported at their present levels. However, the support price for cotton will drop from 92½ to 90 per cent of parity.

The idea behind parity farm prices is to insure the farmer the same buying power, compared with the rest of the community, that he had during a favorable crop period. Usually the standard interval upon which parity prices are based are the five years from 1909 to 1914.

Five other basic crops will continue to be supported at 90 per cent of parity. They are wheat, corn, rice, peanuts and tobacco.

BERLIN: Trouble

As U. S. planes continued to fly tons of food into beleaguered Berlin the East-West stalemate over Germany was solidifying in a stubborn mold.

The Russian blockade of Berlin had brought the painful German issue to a head, and both the Soviets and the western powers were anticipating that events might begin to move very rapidly soon.

There were these developments:

The Communists announced that they were drawing up a constitution for a German republic and also a two-year economically

In Berlin, power cuts were ordered in the three western sectors of the city to save the dwindling coal stocks. The action was taken despite the fact that coal shipments had begun to arrive by air.

Key to the situation, perhaps, was the Communist proposal for a new constitution. The Soviet-sponsored German People's Congress of eastern Germany announced that the document would be official. In a statement the group said that "Germany is an indivisible republic made up of states and that executive power stems from the people."

That appeared to bring Soviet intentions more or less out in the open. It means that Russia apparently is determined either to force the western democracies out of Berlin or bludgeon them into an agreement whereby the Soviets would be in virtual control of the city

REPUBLICAN: Changes, If

It will be a gigantic task. Policies that a Republican president would have to establish would range through the current conduct of foreign affairs; domestic spending of taxpayers' money; federal relations with private business, labor and industry; housing, veterans, agriculture and social improvements.

Then there will be the matter of choosing a cabinet that will be geographically representative of the entire nation.

RAILROADS: No Strike

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough was not a man to stand idly by and watch society disintegrate, as he termed it, so he issued an injunction forbidding a national rail strike.

The injunction was a permanent one replacing the temporary "no strike" order he issued last May after the government had seized the railroads in the face of an impending strike by the three operating brotherhoods.

Justifying his action, Goldsborough said that if he had not issued the order "the whole economic and political system of the nation would be upset."

Although rail unions had protested that a permanent injunction was unnecessary, Goldsborough said they could not be permitted "to adopt a process which will disintegrate society it true, he pointed whatever merits ht hold. "Our throughout the e away with, we'd become a laughing stock. To permit a strike of this kind is something society should not be forced to tolerate."

This M-7% W-8%

But as the stalemate dragged on the disputants apparently lost some of their zest for the contest.

Finally a series of conferences, arranged by John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, resulted in a more or less amicable settlement: The unions agreed to accept a wage increase of 15½ cents an hour, plus some changes in operating rules.

Chortled President Truman as he called the labor and management representatives into his office: "You did this on your own hook and I feel very good about it. I congratulate all of you on it."

CYCLES: Freezing

People who are addicted to the theory that human existence is defined by cycles have made a horrendous prediction: This will be a world of dictators for the next 250 years.

Plane Is Used to Dust Cotton on Farms in Weaverte[illegible] rea

Head-Line M-47% W-41

For the first time in Marshall county, the method of cotton dusting by air was employed Friday on the Sartin farms in the Weaverton community and apparently with complete and favorable results

The Sartins — Smith, R D and R B — contracted the plane from Durant to dust their cotton for insect control when the fields became too wet to enter with a tractor duster

The trio also was among the first to use one of the newer poisons to protect cotton crops

The plane converted a roadway near the farms into a landing strip where [illegible] Using approximately [illegible] of three per cent [illegible] r benzene hexachl[illegible] ent DDT and 40 [illegible] xture

M-39% W-32

Flying low over the fields, the plane spread seven pounds of the new mixture per acre. The air was calm and the plants were covered with dew so that the powerful blast of air from the propellers thoroughly covered the cotton plants with the dust. A 40 acre field of cotton was dusted in approximately 15 minutes

The pilot charges 50 cents per acre minimum, according to the Sartins, and five cents per pound when more than 10 pounds of poison per acre were used. Poison used by the Sartins cost 17 cents per pound It is designed to control all insects attacking cotton.

C. F. Stiles, Extension entomologist visited three fields last week and found the weevil infestation to run 33 per cent in Solon Creswell's crop, 18 per cent in R. B. Sartin's and 25 per cent in Smith Sartin's field. Control measures should be begun when more than 10 per cent of the squares are punctured However, none of the crops examined had a normal set of squares.

In fact, Mr. Stiles recommended that poisoning be deferred until there was more of a crop to protect. He also said that calcium arsenate and sulfur mixed, would be effective for the first application, unless a grower wanted to use the new BHC.

The calcium arsenate-sulfur mix is considerably cheaper per pound, but at least 12 pounds per acre should be used for small cotton As it is usually one-third calcium arsenate this would be about four pounds per acre The sulfur is effective in flea hopper control

The success of a cotton insect control program depends upon regular checks of infestation and the application of poison at five day intervals Unless such a plan is followed there will be a waste of poison when infestation is less than 10 percent or ineffective control if longer periods elapse between poisonings

"Cotton Insect Control, 1948" is a circular on the latest and best poisons and their application that can be secured free at the county agent's office.

"A scale which is not functioning properly can mean the loss of considerable sums of money each day it is in use. Also, the state certificate showing that a scale has been officially tested and approved justifies the confidence of farmers or dealers who do business at the gin," said J C Sholar, head of the division

Vitamin A Is Top Poultry Requisite

One of Marshall county poultrymen's biggest problems in feeding pullets through the summer months is an a[illegible] of vitamin A. Cou[illegible]ent reports.

Altho[illegible] be provided h[illegible] a meal and va[illegible]rates, a green pasture crop is the best source. Vitamin A is easily oxidized and is more apt to lose its potency under storage conditions when present in the feed in condensed or synthetic form.

Some of the better crops for feeding pullets through the summer are Swiss chard and Sudan grass, Ozment points out.

History's Biggest [illegible] Farm Crop Is Predicted

Head-Line M-39% W-24

Prospects of the biggest general farm crop in history this week gave American housewives and diplomats alike reason for rejoicing

The outlook is for more and cheaper meat at home — eventually — plus full scale grain shipments abroad.

A record corn crop of 3,328,862,000 bushels, nearly 41 million above the [illegible] cast by t[illegible]rtment this wee[illegible]ve last year's to[illegible]ushels

The d[illegible]ed a wheat crop of 1,241,751,000 bushels, only some 123 million bushels short of the record set last year

In addition, excellent prospects were held out for most of the other crops

The huge corn, wheat and other grain supplies will more than meet the needs of farmers who want to step up feeding of cattle, hogs and other meat producers.

On the other hand, the big feed supply outlook does not promise any immediate meat price relief.

Holding off both hogs and cattle from slaughter while they are giving extra rations of corn and other grains will keep the meat supply tight through this fall.

In addition, large numbers of hogs are expected to be held back for breeding purposes, further cutting and immediate supply.

With fewer animals on farms and consumer demand very strong, prices of most livestock products are at or near record levels. These should come down, however, when big supplies of meat begin reaching stores next year.

Boll Weevil Control Project Is Lauded

With cotton insect poisoning time at hand, County Agent Dale Ozment recalled this week a story of successful boll weevil control last year on the farm of James Fricke, who [illegible] miles n[illegible]

Selective Service Act of '48 Is Outlined By Army

(Following is a summary of the selective service act of 1948, furnished this week by the U. S. Army, and outlining all major points of the bill.)

Authorized Strengths

Army — [illegible] 000 regular and [illegible] 000 [illegible]
Navy — [illegible] 000 regular and [illegible] 000 reserves
Air Force — 502 000 regular and [illegible] 000 [illegible]
Total — 2,005, 840 regular and 161 000 [illegible]

One Year Enlistme

A maximum of 165,000 [illegible] years old enlisted for one year service may be kept on active duty with the armed forces within the continental limits of the United States.

Upon completion they are transferred to a reserve component for six years (subject to a possible one month of active duty annually), or four years in an organized unit.

If a vacancy is available, it is the duty of the individual to serve in an organized reserve unit or in an officers' training program for four years. If he declines this assignment, he may be ordered back for 12 additional months of active duty. The Secretary of Defense is authorized to prescribe regulations governing transfer between reserve components and allowable credits for service at transfer

Registration

All male citizens and male resident aliens aged 18 through 25

Liability for Service

All male citizens aged 19 through 25 unless exempted, or deferred

Service

Men drafted must serve 21 consecutive months

Entrance requirements are lowered to a general classification test score of 70

Anyone of draft age shall be offered an opportunity to enlist for 21 months' service in the regular army (Current laws governing length of enlistments in the navy or air force are unchanged. Persons may volunteer for one year's extension of inducted service.)

Anyone who is enlisted, inducted or appointed in the armed forces after the effective date of the act (past) and completes less than 36 months of active service and who meets the qualifications for enlistment therein, must be transferred to a reserve component for five years and be subject to such additional training and service as may be hereafter prescribed by law for such component.

In lieu of five years in a reserve component persons completing 21 months' service or more may discharge this reserve obligation by:

a. An additional year of active service between 16 September 1940 [illegible] and effective date of the act

[illegible] who have had from 90 days to 12 months of service either before Pearl Harbor or during the period from V-J Day to [illegible] as determined [illegible]

b. That he is a member of an organization of a reserve component of the armed force in which he served including, the Coast Guard

c. That he is a member of a reserve component of the armed forces in which he served if no unit is reasonably accessable to him without unduly interrupting his normal pursuits and activities — including attendance at regular enrollment in college or university courses

d. That enlistment in a reserve component of the armed forces in which he served is not available or he is serving in an organized unit of the armed force in which he has not served

(Service as a cadet or midshipman at a service academy or in an ASTP or similar program or in preparation or processing therefor, is not credited as active duty service.)

Members of Reserve Units

Members of the National Guard or organized units of the reserve components on effective date of the act are exempt from service so long as they remain members, and satisfactorily participate in scheduled drills and training as prescribed by the Secretary of Defense, but not from registration unless on active duty

After the effective date of the act, youths under 18 1-2 years are deferred by enlisting and serving in any unit of the National Guard if a gubernatorial proclamation states such unit cannot be maintained in strength otherwise.

Except for men in the above categories, or veterans, no one who joins a reserve component after the effective date of the act will be exempt from registration or service

Present members of the advanced course, senior division ROTC of the army, air and navy or juniors and seniors in college appointed as midshipmen, US naval reserve, are deferred until completion of the course but not from registration.

After the effective date of the act, persons selected for enrollment or continuance in the senior division ROTC who agree to accept a commission if tendered and to serve thereafter for two years on active duty are deferred until completion of the course and as long thereafter as they continue to hold their commissions.

Qualified and accepted aviation cadet applicants are deferred while awaiting entrance, but not to exceed four months

Officials elected by statewide vote are deferred while in office.

Regularly ordained ministers, theological students, those pre-enrolled in full-time courses of recognized divinity schools or in courses preparing them for theological courses are exempt from training but not from registration.

Presidential deferment, on the basis of individual status, is authorized for men with dependants, and those engaged in agriculture, industry, government, study, research and scientific, medical or other endeavors necessary in the public interest.

High school students are deferred until graduation, or until age 20.

College students while satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction if ordered to report for induction will be deferred until the end of the academic year. Presidential authority is given to defer such categories of students for such periods of time as he deems appropriate.

No person may be accepted for enlistment after he has received orders to report for induction.

The sole surviving son of a Gold Star family is exempt.

Active Duty for Reservists

Presidential authority is given, notwithstanding other laws, to order certain members of the reserve components to active duty for 21 months without their consent. These are members who have had less than 90 days' continuous active service and are not otherwise deferred or exempt.

Gubernatorial consent is necessary in ordering individual members of the National Guard to duty.

Rights and Privileges

Reemployment rights are preserved for both volunteer enlistments and inductions.

Absentee voting privileges are extended to those inducted, and no poll tax is to be charged them.

Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief act is extended and made applicable to all persons inducted.

Employment of Civilians

An increase in the number of civilians employed by the armed forces is allowed but only for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the act; however, appropriations will still govern the number which can be paid.

Miscellaneous

The final act contains no provision for special calls of doctors, dentists, veterinarians or members of allied professions.

No presidential proclamation is required for implementation.

No enlistment of non-resident aliens is allowed.

Reynolds Puts No-Hit Clamp on GIs 17 Innings

The name of Tommy Reynolds was added to the local baseball blue book this week after pitching two consecutive no-hit games against the Durant GIs and materially strengthening the locals' standing in the Southern Oklahoma Softball association

With a .500 record over the sea Jaycees have two games remaining, with W fore the close of the regular season.

Head-Line M-87 W-76 %

M-32 W-11 %

No dates have been set for the games, both of which were postponed earlier in the season due to wet grounds. The Jaycees have won four while dropping the same number

In the first of two contests with Durant, played there Monday night, Reynolds was credited with 13 strikeouts as the locals romped to a 3 to 2 victory. A pair of walks and three teammate errors cost him the perfect game.

The Jaycees scored two runs in the second on a pair of singles coupled with two fielder's choices which failed to peg the front man and left two on safely.

After Lee Platner and Dempsey Follis had completed the circuit, Buster Templeton rapped a single in the top of the sixth and scamped home safely on Platner's resounding one-ply blow.

The GIs blew their entire poke in the second stanza when Reynolds permitted a walk while the homelings were committing two errors.

The second game, staged here Tuesday night, possessed big league drama as Reynolds was forced to go three extra innings after holding a 1 to 0 lead in the visitors' half of the seventh with two away

The brilliant Jaycee hurler had put them down in order through the first six frames, taking the toll of 10 at the plate. After fanning the first two men up in the seventh, Centerfielder Tommy O'Dea reached first on an error at first and rounded home when the Jaycee first'sacker did a repeat of his first flub.

With the exception of a walk, Reynolds calmly corralled the visitors in the three overtime brackets until Harold King streaked safely to first on a well-timed bunt and closed his diamond dash when Reynolds shot safely into deep left

Follis had tallied in the fifth to give the Jaycees their single run lead going into the seventh

Ada Trips Madill 4 to 2 in Short 12-Inning ...

Head-Line M-33 W-16 %

The Madill Jaycees suffered narrow margin defeats in two home encounters Thursday and Friday nights, losing to Ardmore 2 to 1 and dropping a 4 to 2 decision to Rugsby Motor Company of Ada in a 12-inning marathon contest.

The Ardmore nine punched across two tallies in the second frame of Thursday night's game which held up through the remaining five stanzas. Centerfielder Henry Gilstrap poked a double with one man away and proceeded to steal home As if that weren't embarrassing, Sam Gilstrap, a brother who played catcher hit by Pitcher promptly stole ases.

Demp rounding out in te, hammered a circuit clout in the sixth inning for Madill's only run. Catcher Dink Sterling chalked the only other Jaycee hit, a single in the fifth Madill fans witnessed Friday night one of the most brilliant defensive duels ever played at the local park. The Jaycees snapped up a quick 1 to 0 lead in the opening frame when Lee Platner doubled deep into center and slipped home on an error which left Bob Barber safe at first.

Boat Demands Swamping Kingston Manufac...

Head-Line M-52 W-38 %

Boat building simply isn't keeping up with the demand on Lake Texoma.

M-46 W-34 %

Jones came to Lake Texoma in January, 1947 Originally, he planned to operate on the shores of the lake, and bought private land on which to carry on his business. When he saw the red tape with which government bureaus were hampering development on the lake, he decided to move back to Kingston as a base of operations.

He did not start immediately on the construction of boats, however. He looked the situation over carefully, noted that such a large lake was likely to produce rough water at a moment's notice, and designed a boat accordingly. In working out his design, he visited numerous boat-building establishments on the coast, to see exactly the kind of boat that would be best suited to Lake Texoma.

He came up with a design that has proved highly successful. It's only a 14-foot boat, but its special design makes it a particularly safe ... ucted of plywood, it has ... and 21-inch depth. ... particularly, were ... h the boat. The three ... t in research before he actually started construction proved a profitable investment. Already he has sold 120 of the boats The only reason he has not sold more of them is that he could not produce more

In addition to his new boat construction, Mr. Jones also is building specially-designed boats of all kinds and sizes. One of these was completed just this week and shipped to Oil City, La. This particular boat was a heavy work boat with flat bottom, designed especially for the swamps where it was to be used

Jones employs from four to six men in his shops, but cannot keep up with his orders

Repair work on boats requires much of his time and attention He is able to handle repair work on any size boat, from the small row boats on up to the biggest cruisers on the lake

He plans to expand his business in the near future Additional working space will enable him to use more workmen and manufacture more boats

In addition to this increased manufacturing space he also plans to open repair service on the lake on boats without the necessity of pulling the boats in to the plant at Kingston

Plant Fertility Loss in Lake Is Blamed for Smaller Catches

M-26 W-14 %

There are 31 different species of fish in Texoma at this time. An increase in any species does have an influence on the population of the game fish and very little can be done until the numbers reach the point where it would be advisable to call in commercial fishermen, he continued

"Although there are many questions to which we do not yet know the answers, we feel that something can and will be done to maintain good fishing at Texoma," Buck said

The authority recently returned from a trip to Austin where he conferred with a chief Texas marine biologist who is interested in the problem A new man will be employed full time at Texoma this summer to aid in the study and formation of plans to encourage continued good fishing.

Improved Fishing, Hunting Seen in New U. S. Laws

More fun afield and on the stream is on tap for Oklahoma sportsmen as the result of three major bills passed during the 80th Congress which recently adjourned in Washington.

Kelly DeBusk, state game and fish director viewed with satisfaction this week the bills which favor wildlife conservation and which will help Oklahoma's game.

The Bu... provides that surpl... turned over to th... purposes or to the U S fish and wildlife service for a migratory bird program.

Areas which DeBusk hopes the state department may acquire for wildlife management under the bill include the Choteau powder plant area embracing 40 sections in Mayes county, the former naval gunnery school range near Lexington which covers 13 square miles and a part of the Camp Gruber former army base near Muskogee.

An appropriation for $22,000,000 has been allocated the U.S. fish and wildlife service. The record budget includes a substantial increase in funds for enforcement of migratory bird laws and for the maintenance of reservations for mammals and birds and for wildlife investigations. This will directly affect three national wildlife refuges in Oklahoma, the state game director pointed out. They are located at Tishomingo, Lawton and Cherokee.

Congress also passed the Taft-Barkley stream pollution control bill but only after striking some of its most forceful provisions. As it now stands, the bill fails to meet all demands of conservationists for a good pollution-control law, but is regarded as a step in the direction.

The Oklahoma game and fish department is anxiously await... copies of the new law, to ascertain how it may be applied to Oklahoma waters, many of which are suffering from oil, salt water and sewage pollutants.

Tips Offered on Stocking Ponds

If you're planning on stocking a pond in the near future, here are some helpful tips from Dr. W. H. Irwin, fish expert at Oklahoma A and M college.

Stock a new pond with minnows first, the expert suggests. This will develop a s... he fish that wi... he explains. Th... of minnows wh... tor... this section ... ey are the golden shiner the red fin and the fat head.

These can be used singly or as a combination of two or more kinds. It will not take over a year at the most for a good feed supply to develop.

If the pond owner is interested in game fish the large... mouth black bass is one of the best for Oklahoma. This fish feeds largely on other fish so it is best to give the minnows time to grow before adding the bass.

The number of fish to be put in the pond depends upon the size of the fish. If fry, one inch long, are to be used it is good to plant 1,000 to a surface acre. Fingerlings, 4 to 6 inches long, develop best when 150 are planted to the acre. Mature bass that will breed in a short while should be limited to two pair to an acre.

Some persons prefer a good pan fish. The red ear sunfish is about the best in this state. They grow to about one and a half pounds and are excellent eating fish. In the case of sunfish as with bass the number planted depends upon the size.

Additional Texts 'Not Available,' Senator Predicts

Senator Raymond Gary said today there is "little likelihood" that additional free textbooks can be secured for state school children until the legislature convenes in January.

Gary is a member of a committee of legisla... ...ointed by Presi... dent Pr... discuss the poss... ...er Turner and ... ...k commission.

"It ap... that the governor will call a special legislature to approve funds necessary for the program because of the high cost of such a move," the senator said.

The state is committed to a program of "no purchasing until appropriations are approved," Gary pointed out.

He said the only other alternative is for textbook concerns to "take a chance" by issuing the books now and submitting their bills in January.

"It would appear that that is not sound business but a similar move was attempted and proved successful under the M. E. Trapp administration," he disclosed.

The special textbook committee is expected to convene in Oklahoma when several of its members return from the Democratic convention in Philadelphia.

An outlay of some $500,000 already has been approved by the legislature which will furnish free texts to children through the first three grades. In order to complete the program, through eight grades, an additional $750,000 would have to be approved.

ORPAH accepted Naomi's suggestion, and turned away to her own people; but not so with Ruth. She loved Naomi. She could not give her up. Naomi had done something for Ruth in those years of sorrow and loss.

WHEN FAITH CONQUERS

HERE we witness conquering faith—conquering faith in the hearts of Naomi and Ruth. And they come to Bethlehem. It was the harvest season, and Naomi directed Ruth to glean in the field of Boaz, a wealthy and generous-hearted citizen of Bethlehem. Faith in action! And Naomi, through her conquering faith, held in her arms the little baby, Obed, and dreamed of God's unfolding purposes to bless the world.

In this unsurpassed romance we witness faith in adversity, faith in association, faith in conduct, faith in claim, faith in confidence, and faith in a glorious climax.

But Naomi followed the gleam. And her trust in God shed its gentle glow into the lonely heart of the Moabite widow, Ruth. Ruth clave unto Naomi. She could not do otherwise. "Truth is stranger than fiction."

And all history was enriched. It is ever so when faith conquers. Thus the poet states the case:

Letters to The Editor

Editor, Madill Record
Madill, Oklahoma
Dear Editor:

Each Saturday morning, in this foreign land of Texas, we eagerly await the arrival of the Madill Record. A statement in the last edition of your paper leaves us slightly indisposed.

The lower left hand corner of the front page attracted our attention and interest. The [illegible] chug holes [illegible] was [illegible] by us. Now, we [illegible] practically ev [illegible] Central Texas, it [illegible] German, American and Spanish. We are unable to find a reasonable definition for this word. In the German dictionary we found "gut" which means good. The question now is, were the chug holes a good inch, foot or mile deep?

LAKE TEXOMA

Back again in childhood trails,
Back with pals of school,
Back to parents who reared me,
Back, and at home where it's cool.

Oh, God, to have learned you love me,
And taught me beauty untold,
Steadied my pen to tell the world,
My wealth's not termed in gold.

Steadied my soul to say the things,
Wrung from a heart in tears,
Taught me to fight if there's a cause,
Muffled unneeded fears.

Taught me to pray the needed prayer,
"Lord, Teach me to say,
There's plenty o' good in thy worst c
Show way."
You gav men of,
Lavi art;
You added the pride of a fathers day,
Pride of a deep set sort.
Pride, too, of a daughter,

M-20 W-38

Yet in her early teens,
Honor unending he knows is his,
Wrought in truth, no sheen.
So I look back into childhood,
Untearful of days ahead,
Grateful of those who made it gay,
Honoring those who are dead.

If death there be to folks in faith,
'Tis death for only a day,
To bring new light to Christian hearts,
No tragedy can sway.

I've ceased to long that hands be stilled,
As the clock ticks steady and sure,
I've ceased to want youth's gayety,
And childhood's sweet allure.

For I've a task, yes, a reason to be,
I trust I shall do it well,
God gives me inspiration,
Which prayer and love will tell.

CAPITOL REPORT

By ROY J. TURNER

The press and many citizens, who are well informed on state affairs, have stated many times that we had a good Oklahoma legislature in 1947.

I concur with these appraisals because I believe that our 1947 legislative session produced a constructive program for our state — a program which has brought us considerable progress — a program, which is worthy of continuation and development. Whether it shall be continued and developed will depend, to a large extent, upon whom we elect to the legislature in 1948.

Every campaign produces a lot of election promises. Some are sincere, and some are not. Some promises, which are made sincerely, are based upon false premises and are worthless, or even dangerous, because [illegible] l.

One ich made our la successful, was th mbers to vote fo r state as a whol to thrust local interests ahead of state interests.

M-14 W-11

I have said before — and — think it bears repeating — that Oklahoma cannot advance by counties or districts. Progress knows no county or district lines.

Therefore, voters should look askance at any legislative candidate, who promises to make local interests of his own district his sole interest while serving in the legislature. We need legislators with broader perspectives than this.

Then there is another type of candidate, who should come in for some close public scrutiny. This is the candidate, who enters a campaign pledged to support — and supported by — some special interest.

The special interest candidate is tightly tied up in his promise — which he usually does not make publicly — to fight for an appropriation (or a tax reduction) for his special interest. If it's an appropriation he's fighting for, and if he is successful, his ruthless action may result in new taxes for everyone or for some group, which is weak at the polls.

The danger in the election of a special interest candidate lies in the fact that he serves in the legislature — not to represent the people of this district — but to represent his special interest.

I have no hesitancy in saying that if the voters of Oklahoma send too many special interest candidates to the next legislature, Oklahoma's progress will be brought to an abrupt halt, and a period of retrogression will be in immediate prospect.

As governor, I can, and will, recommend a constructive and progressive program to our Twenty-second Legislature, which will convene next January. But I can only recommend. The legislature will write the laws.

The real crux of what kind of laws shall be written for Oklahoma in 1949 rests in the type of legislator elected in 1948.

Allotments are made on the basis of 1947-48 enrollment figures, which for Madill averaged approximately 90 cents per student.

The program was approved by state voters in 1946 and vitalized by the last state legislature.
